LEADERS ATTEND IMPORTANT MEETING IN SOUTH HUNAN

Reported Participation By Marshal Bluecher RECAPTURE OF CANTON PLANNED BY CHINESE

Kwellin, November 17.
An important meeting, held somewhere in south Hunan on November 7, was attended by all ranking generals and leaders concerning a new plan vis-a-vis Japanese aggression. The correspondent of the "Ta Kung Pao," well-informed Chinese newspaper, stated that an influential plenipotentiary also participated in the conference and offered valuable suggestions.
It is believed that this plenipotentiary is Marshal Vassily Bluecher, former Commander-in-Chief of Soviet forces in Siberia, who was at one time military adviser to the Kuomintang troops during the northern expedition. Known then as General Galens, he is well acquainted with China.

COMMONS ON CHINA

A number of interesting questions with reference to Japan's interference with British trade in China, and with the Burma-Yunnan Highway, were raised in the House of Commons. A full report appears on page 6.

Marshal Bluecher's presence in China was reported some time ago, although Japanese and German press reports stated he was imprisoned or executed, but no reason was given for his reported sudden fall from grace.—International.

IMPORTANT CHANGE

Chungking, Nov. 17.
The large-scale withdrawal of the Chinese troops from the north-eastern part of the province of Hunan is believed here to indicate an important change in Chinese military plans.
The Chinese were compelled to withdraw their troops from Hunan because the railway line running through low lands in the east of Hunan would enable the Japanese troops to advance with great rapidity. The Japanese mechanised units would likewise be able to push forward quickly in low lands.

The Chinese therefore plan to concentrate the greater part of their troops in the western and southern part of the province, along the boundary between Hunan and Kwangtung. The mountainous terrain there would favour defence.

WILL RECAPTURE CANTON
The Chinese High Command, above all, is anxious to prevent the Canton-Hankow Railway from falling completely into the hands of the Japanese. The Chinese troop concentrations on the boundary between Hunan and Kwangtung also appear to indicate that the Chinese High Command will attempt to recapture Canton.

That the Japanese are attaching considerable importance to the Chinese offensive against Canton is evident from the fact that they are preparing strong defence positions outside Canton. It is moreover reported that three Japanese divisions from Amoy have been ordered to Kwangtung. According to other reports, the Japanese attempted unsuccessfully to land troops at Po An north-west of Hongkong.—Transocean.

ABOLITION OF CORPORAL PUNISHMENT

DRASTIC PRISON REFORMS

London, Nov. 17.
Drastic prison reforms, planned by the Government, are described in the Criminal Justice Bill published to-night, including abolition of corporal punishment, except for serious prison offences, abolition of penal servitude with hard labour and the ticket-of-leave system.

The reforms also provide for the abolition of the use of the words convict and criminal lunatic, the latter in future to be known as State mental cases.

The proposals are designed to bring the system more in line with modern medical views and to emphasise to offenders that it is more worth while to improve themselves in order to become good members of society when they come out of prisons.

The proposals, costing the Government £230,000 in initial expenses, will be spread over a number of years while the yearly maintenance will be £220,000.—Reuter.

Differences In Japanese Cabinet

MAY HAMPER WAR IN CHINA

Shanghai, Nov. 17.
Serious differences that may hamper Japan's war in China have arisen between Mr. Seihon Ikeda, Japanese Finance Minister, and Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, Minister of Interior, leader of the pro-Fascist group of militarists, over the enforcement of Article 11 of the National Mobilization Law.

The Finance Minister asserted that business and industrial circles, are already bearing excessive burden owing to various kinds of economic control and increased taxes, will be seriously affected if the provisions of Article 11 are enforced, bringing about a sharp decrease in production and inciting further unrest.

Admiral Suetsugu held that burden and hardships of the Japanese people must be borne in order to win the war quickly and that all difficulties must be endured.

DEEMED NECESSARY

Article 11 reads: "The government may, when necessitated by war-time requirements and in accordance with the stipulations of an Imperial ordinance, issue such orders as are deemed necessary regarding the establishment of corporations, increase of capital, mergers, changes of lines of business, payments on unpaid instalments of capital funds or may place limitations on or prohibit entirely the dispositions of profit, the making of redemptions or the general accounting of corporations."

"The government also may issue necessary orders to banks, trust companies and underwriters, so designated by an Imperial ordinance regarding the utilization of funds."—International.

FIRE BRIGADE DISPLAY

CHINESE CONFIDENT FORCES WILL RETAKE CANTON SOON

Many Flights Over City But No Bombs Dropped JAPANESE MAKE VERY SLOW PROGRESS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

Canton, November 17 (10.53 p.m.)
The Chinese here are confident that the forces at present fighting in the West River valley will be successful and will shortly recapture Canton.

Throughout to-day, boats were carrying Japanese soldiers, horses and supplies up river to Shekwaning, the Canton terminus of the railway to Samshui, near which the invaders are engaging a large Chinese force, which is composed chiefly of picked Kwangtung troops.

Another Chinese force, marching down along the Canton-Hankow Railway, has now reached Sankai, while the Japanese are holding Taiching.

From the East River, a Japanese column is headed for Yungyun, present seat of the Kwangtung Provincial Government, but it is making very slow progress as the Chinese are giving battle at Lungmoon, northwest of Waichow.

On Monday, a battle to drive the Japanese from Taiching, in Shuntak district, began.

The Chinese have carried out many air raids on Canton since its occupation by the Japanese. To-day, nine Chinese planes flew over the city, but no bombs were dropped.

The report that a pro-Japanese newspaper started publication yesterday at Taiching is described as inaccurate by well-informed circles.

The Hongkong dollar was today quoted in the city at $1.80 (National currency) and $2.30 (local currency). The Japanese are buying up Chinese currency with military notes which they claim the Bank of Formosa will exchange for other currencies when a branch of the bank opens here shortly.

ATTACK NEAR SAMSHUI
Chungking, Nov. 17.
According to Chinese reports, Japanese aircraft are bombing Japanese troop concentrations in the vicinity of Samshui, on the West River in order to support the present Chinese counter-attack on Canton.—Reuter.

DECISIVE ENGAGEMENT
Shanghai, Nov. 17.
Japanese and Chinese forces in South China will soon come to grips in a decisive engagement north of Canton, a Japanese military spokesman predicted to-day.

Recalling that the Chinese victory at Taiching was a prelude to the fall of Shuechow while other recaptures heralded the fall of Hankow, the spokesman declared that the present Japanese silence was "only indicative of something big to come. It is the quiet before the storm."—Reuter.

SPANISH WAR PROGRESS

Barcelona, Nov. 17.
The Spanish Government admits that Franco's troops recaptured the right bank of the Ebro River but declares that the troops retreated in good order. Both sides are taking stock of their position after the three- and a half months' battle on the Ebro front and both sides maintain they inflicted severe losses on the other side.—Reuter.

RETURN TO REFORMED LEAGUE IS STILL HOPE OF THE WORLD

Society Youth Competition Prizes Distributed

PROF. LAUTENSCHLAGER AND CZECHOSLOVAKIA SACRIFICE

"A RETURN TO A NEW OR A REFORMED LEAGUE is still the hope of the world. We must have a League which will not defend past wrongs, but which will work positively to right real grievances and which at the same time, will prevent military parties from making grievances, real or imagined, an excuse to wage aggressive war," declared Professor Lautenschlager, of the Lingnan University, when addressing a large gathering of students at the St. Stephen's Girls' College yesterday afternoon.

The occasion was the presentation of prizes to the successful competitors in the League of Nations Society Youth Competition.

Speaking on the subject, "The League of Nations and World Peace," Professor Lautenschlager said, in part:—
"Everywhere we are told that the League of Nations is a failure. Made to defend the unjust and revengeful settlements of the last League of Nations idea has not failed but the nations in the League failed to make the League efficacious in stopping war. The League's social and educational work warrants its creation and its existence. It even succeeded in preventing a few minor wars, but in spite of the League our world is today more militarized and more war-like than ever."

Not counting the German advance into Austria and Czechoslovakia, which was really by threat of war, we have had 17 wars since the Great War to end war. Two of the most brutal wars are going on right now, one in Spain and one in China.

The League made several serious mistakes. First, it was tied up. (Continued on Page 8)

UNKNOWN STEAMER RAMS FISHING JUNK

Six Feared Drowned: Aged Master Picked Up

SIX MEN ARE BELIEVED to have been drowned as the result of a collision between a fishing junk and an unknown steamer, flying the Union Jack, between Wagland and Tankantau shortly after 9 p.m. last night.

Report of the tragedy was made to the Water Police last night by Lam Lap-foon, aged 51, master of the ill-fated junk. Lam was picked up from the sea by a boat lowered from the steamer and brought back to Hongkong.

ACCORDING TO LAM, his junk was halfway between Wagland and Tankantau, in Chinese waters, when it was rammed by the steamer. It sunk almost immediately, the 13 members of the crew of the junk being thrown into the water.

SEVEN RESCUED
Seven of them were picked up by the lifeboat but the following are missing and feared to be drowned: Lam Pak-fuk, aged 17, son of the master of the junk; Cheung Kwan-yin, aged 21;

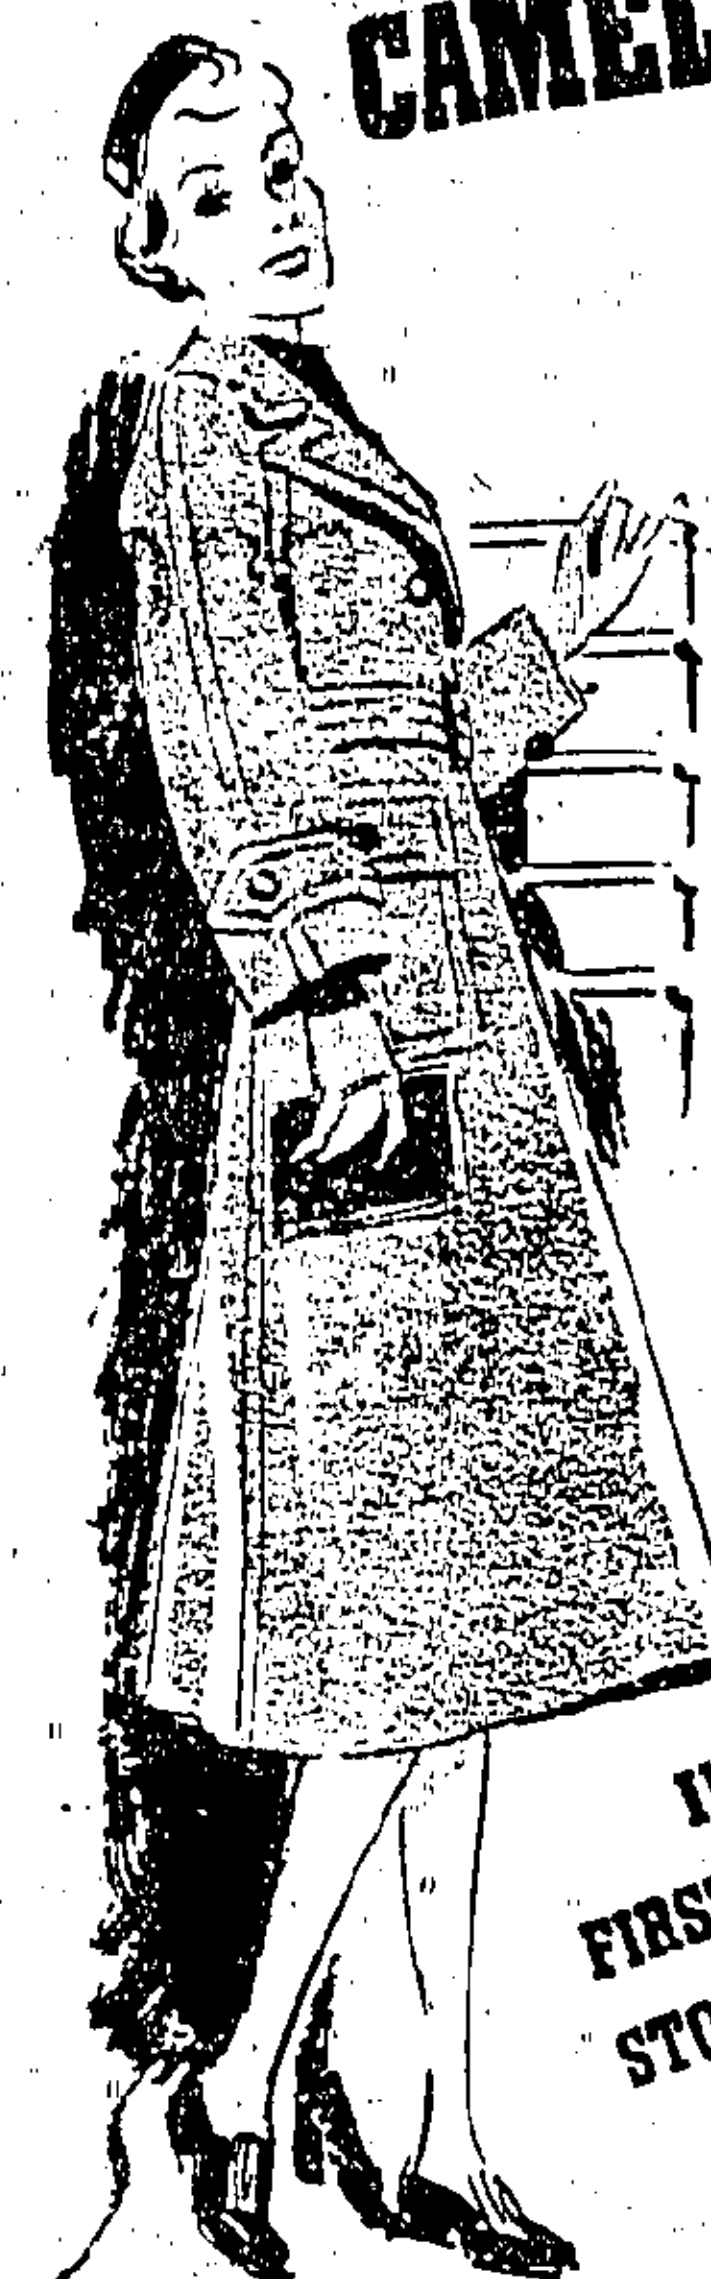

Yeung Koon-po, aged 28; Ng Kai, aged 24; Ng Xue-cheung, aged 25; and Wong Sang, aged 30.
Lam told the police that his junk was valued at $7,000 and that the loss of personal effects amounted to some $500.

An enquiry at the Water Police Station shortly after midnight last night elicited the information that beyond the fact that the steamer was flying the Union Jack, nothing had, up till then, been known regarding her identity.

Sentence of one month's imprisonment was imposed on Wong Wing-hei, unemployed, when he appeared before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Court yesterday charged with stealing a wrist watch from Chau Wing-sang on board a bus in Queen's Road on Wednesday.

Complainant was standing in the bus with defendant behind him. It was stated. The conductor came up and asked whether he had lost a wrist watch. He looked into his pocket and discovered his watch was missing. The conductor pointed at defendant, who produced the watch. A constable who was on the bus took defendant into custody.

Defendant claimed he had picked up the watch from the floor, but the conductor testified that he saw defendant steal the watch. It is 163 ft. along small vein carrying payable values.

THEOSOPHICAL MEETING

Religion's Place In Life

"Religion's Place in Life" was the title of a lecture delivered by Mr. J. S. Greenberg to members of the local Theosophical Society yesterday evening, when Mr. C. A. Sutherland Russ, presided.

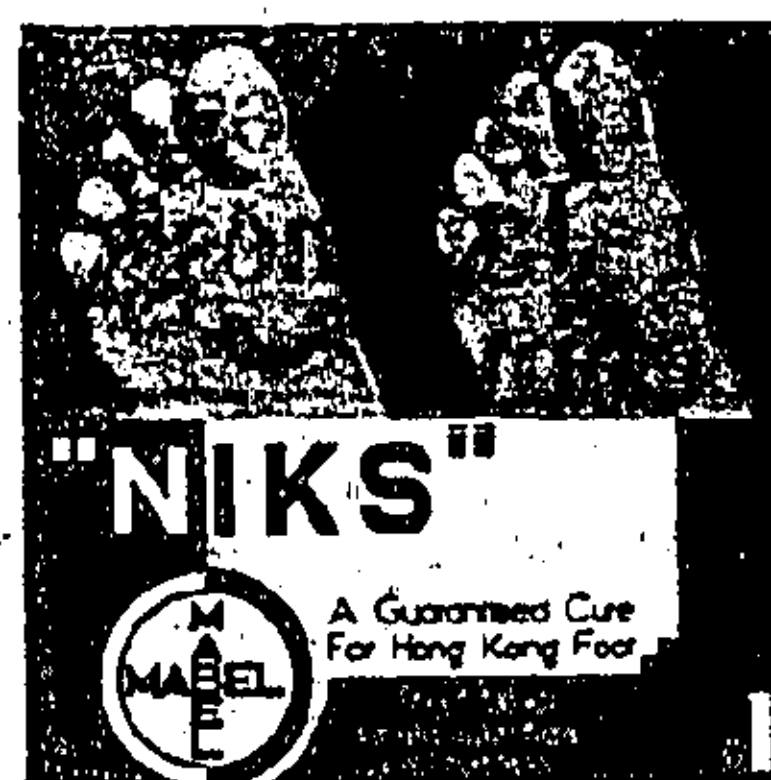

The speaker illustrated his lecture with drawings on a blackboard. He divided religion into seven classes, saying that each had some characteristic differing from the other. These seven forms of religions were known as the "Seven Rays," that is, power through will; love and wisdom; tact and philosophy; beauty and artistry; science, devotion and religion; power and regimentation, etc.

The speaker said that to-day there was a reactionary tendency towards religion, but the future would see religion evolve in its true place. Nowadays everyone was thinking of science as a religion.

THE WEATHER

Warmer weather continued yesterday, the maximum temperature being 72 degrees and the minimum 60.

CONFIDE IN FAITH PRIOR

BEREAVED has just lost her husband. Her brother is being married next month and she does not wish to attend the wedding. However, her brother insists she be present. Procedure in such a situation is asked for.

Though your brother should be able to put himself in your position, however, if you feel that your presence will make a great difference to him, I would suggest you go early to the church. Enter by the vestry and hear the ceremony from that point of vantage; your brother will know you are present.

It would be a great mistake to take your place in the church even if you could summon your courage to do so, since people criticize too easily, not just you, but your lack of feeling for your husband, and that would be very cruel.

USHER for a coming wedding inquires if it is proper to offer the ladies his left arm, particularly when he must seat guests to the left of the aisle.

No. You should offer your right arm always. Whether right of the aisle or on the left makes no difference. If you turn to the right, take a step forward as you direct the guest, or if you turn to the left, take a step back. That is the only difference.

UNDECIDED WISHES to know when and if it is correct to send a "thank you" note to a hostess after a dinner party? There are many times when such a note is quite proper. If, for example, you go to the house of a stranger and for some reason cannot pay your party call or return his hospitality, a note of appreciation would be necessary. But under ordinary circumstances a note is not expected in the same way that a bread-and-butter letter is expected when you stay in someone's house.

In other words, there are many times when typical rules say that you need not write, and yet exceptional circumstances make writing necessary.

AGED has for some time been thinking of making a will and asks for information on the subject.

The best way to go about making a will is to retain a solicitor. There are so many ways in which he can protect you and your heirs, that the small expense should not be considered.

Everyone with real or personal property should make a will to avoid confusion and extra expense for the heirs. Your solicitor can instruct you how best to co-operate with the laws attached to such a procedure. And because of the changing world it is not only good to make a will, but keep it up to date.

PUZZLED wishes to know if it is incorrect to shake hands when introduced, is she old-fashioned, and did this custom go out of style with all of the other early Victorian niceties? It is never old-fashioned to extend a cordial greeting, and one can express much personality in a hand-shake. Men always shake hands when introduced. Whether a woman shakes hands with a man is purely a personal matter with her, though she generally shakes hands with another woman and always if the other woman has already extended her hand.

Old friends usually shake hands on meeting. It is always a nice courtesy for a young man or woman to shake hands with an older man or woman, or for an older woman to offer her hand to a younger person who might be a bit shy about taking the initiative.

DEAR FAITH PRIOR: I have been working with my company for three years. I believe that my services will continue to be desired by said organization. However, I wish to get married. Consequently, I would like a raise, what should I do, automatically we get a raise a year but not a large one. Also, do you think two young people can live on $400 a month.

A WORKER: In the first place you do not state your age, however, from your letter I should judge you to be quite young.

Regarding your raise, the simple process is to go to your superior, inform him of your intentions and ask for an increase in salary. I am sure he will comply with your request, particularly if you have been in the concern three years and your services evidently are satisfactory.

Two people can live very nicely on the sum mentioned, however, you will not be able to be exact.

Round The Shops

Christmas mail schedules are now posted. Christmas shopping has started and many young ladies in the Colony have their eye on various pieces of apparel and accessories for holiday gifts.

The shops are turning over their merchandise very quickly, so you all had better join the crowd and start looking for bargains.

Coats For Winter

Everyone needs the particular warm coat for winter days and evening. LANE CHAWFORD'S SALON offer a very select group of these coats trimmed in luxurious furs of fox, lapin, beaver, dyed squirrel and other pelts.

New sleeve treatments, in particular the "dolman" style, are incorporated in the tailoring. The materials of smooth and rough surfaces are new in weave. The colour range is small at present, mainly black, dark brown and blue. Oh! Evening Gowns

Upstairs in MAYO'S newly renovated shop, which is quite modern and up-to-date, are evening gowns which will put the sparkle in your eye and probably deplete your cheque-book. The styles are different in each gown.

Glistening spangles and sequins, beading, gold and silver brocade, rich velvets beautiful in colouring. The blending and contrasting of various hues in one dinner or evening frock is smartly fashioned.

If you are selecting your new holiday season gown have a look at these interesting and different evening fashions.

A La Cocktail

During the winter season, cocktail and tea parties are quite in order. Several inexpensive and smart frocks are necessary for such affairs and these you will find in a well selected group at RIVELLE'S, in the Gloucester Arcade.

Black crepes, always smart and in fashion, are included in this group, the trimmings of fringe, beading, studs, with the white satin and lingerie touches, add just the note for a dressy frock.

Other colours of plum, rust, dark blues and the lovely new green blue shade are styled into attractive garments which serve you faithfully for winter afternoon socials and into the early evening hours.

New Shipment

Over at the EXCELLA shop, in Kowloon, they are awaiting with much impatience for the new shipment of merchandise, which includes wool suits, dresses and crepes for afternoon wear, and evening ensembles. Hats and bags, too, are on the order. This group of apparel is due in to-day on the Empress of Asia from America. Therefore, make a quick visit to the shop and beat the crowd in your selection of the latest and unusual outfits.

Furs And Furs

Furs and more furs is the war cry in the fashion picture the coming months. Also many of you "ast astug and sigh, you believe you cannot afford the luxury and smartness of a fur wrap. Hold on! Stop in and see MRS. WILLY'S furs from Shanghai and the North. She is located in the Metropole Hotel Building and has a very nice selection of coats, scarfs, capes, evening wraps, foxes and hats.

Any fur goes this season, some, of course, are more expensive than others, and in this shop you will find a price and fur to suit your needs and pocket book.

travagant and save money at the same time. Budget your expenses and stick to them. Do not run bills unless absolutely necessary. And put some money each month in a saving account for sickness, vacations, children and future investments.

There are many people living in the Colony on a smaller income and do very nicely.

(Each week in this column, FAITH PRIOR answers questions of a personal nature submitted by readers of the "Daily Press.")

Fashion PRE-VIEW

WINTER COAT VARIETIES

Winter coats, dressy or sports, are one of the necessities of everyone's wardrobe. Great care and fore-thought should be given to the selection of these garments, particularly if your income is limited.

Pick a winter coat that does something for you. Just any coat of wool to keep you warm is not what you want to invest your money in. Each person can wear a certain type of coat and with much success in smartness as well as usefulness.

The Dirndl of this winter is a coat with fullness in the skirt. This style will do wonders for the lanky, angular figure, which needs softness, and gathers do the trick. Choose a colour to suit your individuality, or blend with the outstanding garments and accessories of the rest of your wardrobe.

The Matronly figure needs a style of its own. A long, straight line, slightly form-fitting, will add youth and at the same time dignity to the older figure. Darker shades slenderize the middle heaviness.

Immature figures need a build-up on the shoulders and busts. Pockets placed at the shoulders and hips of a form-fitting coat will help this type of figure. Heavy materials in bright colours will also give bulk to these lines.

You may let your fancy select the fur trim of your coat. Any fur goes this year. Keep it clean by brushing, once or twice this winter rub lightly a tiny bit of castor oil over the ends of the fur. This keeps them from splitting or becoming discoloured.

Materials! Take your choice, but consider your figure, the occasions when you will wear the garment mainly and the rest of your wardrobe for blending. Wools, crepe wools, gabardine, velveteen, corduroy, rough and smooth fabrics are all used. While on the subject, think about the lining for these coats. Satin in a heavy quality is wearable, and facilitates the slipping on or off. Heavy crepes are very popular, too. See that there are shields at the arm-holes and

FURS FOR FASHION

Fur-trimmed coats are Fashion's decree for winter. Woolen fabrics smartly set off by rich luxurious furs are tailored into unusual winter styles.

Many ladies and young girls, sorry to say, are Sway Back. Of course, this can be corrected by constant thought of the posture.

However, for the lazybones, a certain styling can hide this error of shape. Fullness above and below the waist in the back counteract the effect of a sway back.

The coachman type of styling is also smart and hides a multitude of postures and

The athletic woman or girl finds she has a large and broad pair of shoulders, quite out of proportion to the rest of her figure. Try a coat with raglan sleeves; they are in vogue again and popular on frocks as well. Also dressmaker lines modify these broad shoulders and give a soft line throughout the garment. Do not use a heavy material in this tailoring.

If you are "the long-drink-of-water" figure, use the very fashionable, long midriff line above loose folds to cut the height off a bit. A belted coat is useful in this respect. But above all do not use a great deal of fur at the collar, but more on the sleeve.

FUR IN WINTER

The shops, fashion magazines and notices have been bombarding you with the slogan, "Fur on Winter Apparel." Sleeves are made of fur, large cuffs of fur, collars of fur, the same around the hems, down the front and even boleros of fur are noticed on winter coats.

Watch out for the use of this trimming in places where the wear and tear will tell very quickly. Place your fur cuffs an inch above the actual coat cuff, do not have your collar hugging your neck where it will rub against the skin and become oily, powdery, or soiled.

And if you use fur at the belt see that the catch is fastened to the fabric of the coat.

an added piece of material at the neck. These two points are the quickest to show wear.

BUTTONS, BUTTONS

Buttons are used quite a bit—covered ones of the coat material, or composition buttons. The dressy coats frequently have one large jewelled button or double clip which is removable, too. It is very new and interesting.

Whatever your final selection, see that the coat does something for your figure and the other garments with which you wear it. A coat is a coat—but what do you look like in this particular winter garment? Be sure it is your best.

NEW COSTUME JEWELLERY FOR WINTER

Dazzling, Romantic, Slightly Mad

Dazzling, romantic and slightly mad; thus you can describe the new costume jewellery. Gems will accent the up-swept coiffure and bare shoulders. Infinite variety and the luxuriousness of the French Court are the mood for evening Jewellery.

Hunt through your heirloom chests. Any lovely old cameos? If not, look at the new, modern versions of some of the cameos that made grandmother the toast of her time.

For a long neck, which the bare shoulder evening mode and high hair comb is bound to exaggerate, you'll find a demure set of cameos of positive heirloom impressiveness.

BELLE OF THE BALL! Simple Etiquette Rules Based On Common Sense

Before you step out for that evening of glamour and romance, check up on your etiquette. You will have a far better time and so will your escort, if your manners are considerate.

If you are physically strong enough to dance, then you are strong enough to walk across a ballroom floor without clinging to your partner's arm. Save the clinging-vine act for the moonlight.

When you leave the ballroom or hall, walk along the side of the room, not diagonally across an empty floor. Making yourself publicly conspicuous may destroy your glamour. It's not good form, either.

Girls smoke, of course. But they don't dance with lighted cigarettes between their fingers. You may think a cigarette on the dance floor makes you look sophisticated. It doesn't.

UNBREAKABLE RULE

If you are very popular and many men come up to talk with you, remember this unbreakable rule—the man who invited you to the party must get more attention from you than any of the others. He is your host. Good manners require you to consult your host's wishes during the evening.

Another thing, don't be too hospitable. Women frequently think it exciting to ask other men and their girls to join a supper party after the dance. Unless you are giving the party, remember your host may not want them. And very likely he will have to pay the bill. So restrain your hospitality and let your host do any asking.

When there is four or more in the party do not gather together and go into long clothes and gossip conversations, leaving the men to amuse themselves.

Forget about more expensive places you may have been with other men. Enjoy the evening and don't talk about other parties where you had a gayer time.

These simple rules are based on common sense and common courtesy. Women who observe them won't have to wonder why they do not have more dates.

dress, use a twenty-four strand pearl necklace with amethyst clasp bordered in antique gold and a bracelet of enormous amethysts.

Do you like birds? A little two-inch shoulder ornament with red jewel eye, open beak and hinged wings, is quite chic and can be put to various uses besides evening wear.

GAY CLIPS

Some of the insanely gay clips and ornaments designed for glamorous nights are these, bracelets made of discs of genuine stained glass, each disc the size of a 3 inch circle.

Each glass disc has a medieval motif, such as castles with ramparts, crowns, fleur-de-lis and other reminders of chivalrous days, and is encrusted in a ring of antique gold.

There is a medieval helmet clip in maroon and coloured stones with bold plumes of gold, and there is also a surrealist gold horse clip with tail of tiny pearls.

Mad? Certainly. Mad and glittering, romantic and dazzling, that's what all the new costume jewellery is for, winter nights.

New Licence Tests For Air Liner Pilots

A new air licence for pilots of air liners is to be issued by the Civil Aviation Department of the Air Ministry. It will impose additional qualifications of competence on pilots before they will be allowed to fly passengers.

There will be a meeting of air liner operators at the Air Ministry, night flying will be called for. Six representatives will be selected, know all about "blind landings" and take the second class navigation's ticket as well as pass a test in "blind flying" before being allowed to act as transport pilots. The chief air-line operators already require most of these qualifications.

CHINESE POETS GIFT TO STAR

Richard Dix Finds Out

The mystery of who recently sent him an ivory carved pipe with dragon's eyes of jade in the bowl was solved and an unusual college-day acquaintance renewed when On Ling-po, Chinese poet, visited Richard Dix at his studio recently.

On Ling-po, whom Dix recalled as a Chinese youngster attending the University of Minnesota as a student of Western languages, is now living in San Francisco.

He told the star he was engaged in making new translations of Chinese verse, especially that of his reputed ancestor, Li Po, and also of Tu Fu and Han Yu of the Tang Dynasty, famous for its lyric writers.

On Ling-po, suspected by Dix of having sent him the rare ivory pipe, anonymously, admitted he was the donor.

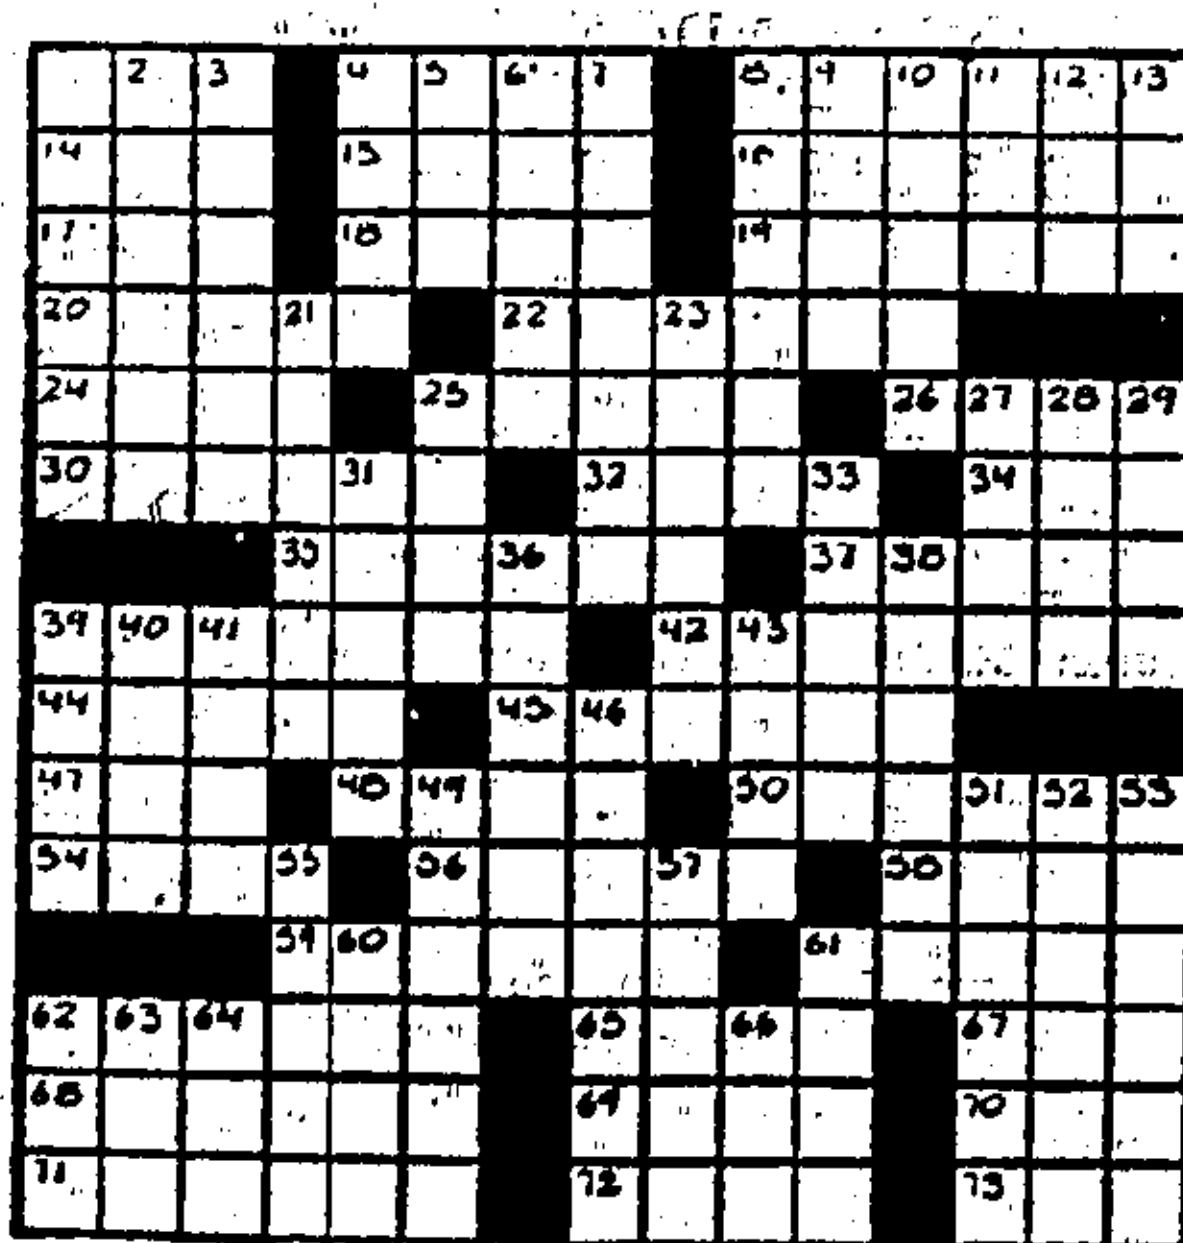

He explained that the pipe, with its dragon carvings, is a poem in ivory, significant of the human soul's unceasing search for adventure.

"As I remember you," Dix told the Chinese poet, "you called yourself Bill Jones and you were a pennyante poker player."

The erstwhile, "Bill Jones" blandly admitted that he attended college under an assumed name.

STAHL PROPOSES FILM STARS ON STAMPS

Interest Would Help American Recovery

In a proposal to Postmaster General James A. Farley, John M. Stahl, Hollywood motion picture producer and director, recently suggested issuing a series of postage stamps commemorating Hollywood and the motion picture industry.

Stating that the stars of motion pictures are, in a sense, ambassadors of good will to all the world, Stahl advocated stamps bearing the likenesses of screen personalities.

A philatelist himself, Stahl declares that such Hollywood issues would bring into the ranks of stamp collectors millions of the younger generation who are most enthusiastically interested in motion picture personalities.

Stressing the economic importance of the motion picture industry, Stahl states that increased national and international interest in it would prove of great value to the nation's recovery drive.

"I am convinced that the plan presents exceptional economic and artistic possibilities," Stahl states. "Certainly the post office business would increase with stamps bearing replicas of Shirley Temple, Norma Shearer, Irene Dunne, Deanna Durbin, Clark Gable, Charlie Chaplin, and even Charlie McCarthy and Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

BURIED LETTER TO PEOPLE OF 6939 A.D.

Einstein's Message On Present Age

Among records of the present age to be buried in the grounds of the World's Fair in New York is a letter in German addressed by Professor Einstein to the people of the year 6939—5,000 years hence.

The records will be placed in a long torpedo-shaped container made of an alloy which, it is believed, will endure until the 76th century. It will be buried 50ft below the ground.

A translation of the letter reads: "Our time is rich in inventive minds, the inventions of which could facilitate our lives considerably. We are crossing the seas by power, and use power also to relieve humanity from all thing muscular work."

"We have learned to fly, and we are able to send messages and news without any difficulty over the entire world through electric waves."

"However, the production and distribution of commodities is entirely unorganized, so that everybody must live in fear of being eliminated from the economic cycle, in this way suffering for the want of everything."

FEAR AND TERROR

"Furthermore, people living in different countries kill each other at irregular time intervals, so that also for this reason anyone who thinks about the future must live in fear and terror. This is due to the fact that the intelligence and character of the masses are incomparably lower than the intelligence and character of the few who produce something valuable for the community."

"I trust that posterity will read these statements with a feeling of proud and justified superiority."

The World's Fair is to be opened on April 30 next year.

BURMA-CHINA HIGHWAY LINK SOON TO BE OPENED

Commons And Japanese Trade Interference

London, November 17. "It is hoped that an all-weather road from Lashio to Yunnanfu will be open to regular traffic shortly. The practicability of constructing a railway is, I understand, being examined by financial interests concerned." This reply was given by Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to a question by Mr. Hamilton W. Kerr in the House of Commons yesterday.

Mr. Kerr asked the Prime Minister whether, in view of Japan's action in "hampering foreign trade carried on by sea on the east coast of China," the Government would pay increased attention to the importance of railway communication between Burma and south-west China, and would "co-operate with the Chinese Government," which how had the matter in hand, in constructing both road and railway which would carry British exports "free from Japanese interference."

Mr. A. C. Moreing asked whether the Government had notified Japan that it was in agreement with the American note of November 6, to which Mr. Butler, in a written reply, referred Mr. Moreing to the answer given on November 10, adding "I am satisfied that the Japanese Government is fully aware of the attitude of the Government."

THE OPEN DOOR
Mr. Moreing also asked whether the Government, with reference to the note, had signified to the United States Government its desire to co-operate in maintaining a policy of the Open Door.

Mr. Butler stated that Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador to Japan, had been in "constant touch" with his American colleague, and he (Mr. Butler) did not think the United States Government could be in "any doubt" as to Britain's policy with regard to the Open Door.

JAPANESE PAPER CURRENCY
Mr. I. C. Hannah (Cons.) asked whether the Government was aware that British trade in North China was still held up by the continued imposition of inconvertible paper currency by the Japanese; whether any action had been taken by the Japanese to permit the resumption of normal credit facilities; and if not, what action the Government was taking.

Mr. Butler replied that the Government was aware of the position, and was keeping a close watch.

RAILWAY REORGANISATION
Mr. Butler answered in the negative when Mr. Hannah asked whether the Government was satisfied with the Japanese reply in July regarding the effect of the Japanese reorganisation of the Peiping-Mukden and other North China railways upon British rights and interests.

Mr. Butler added that Sir Robert Craigie had made further representations on September 3, urging restoration of British rights arising from the agreements of 1888 and 1902. The Japanese reply was still awaited.

LESS SMUGGLING
Replying to Mr. H. Day (Lab.) Mr. Butler said that according to Foreign Office information, there had been an appreciable decrease in smuggling in North China.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI MUNICIPAL CONTROL RESTORATION

London, Nov. 17. Discussions are still continuing with regard to the restoration to the Shanghai Municipal Council of Hongkew and Yangtzepoo, said the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

Mr. R. A. Butler, in the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Butler was replying to a question by Commander A. Marsden (Cons.) on what had been the results of the representations made by the British Ambassador in Tokyo, Sir Robert Craigie.

These representations had been made four months ago, on July 13. Mr. Butler said he was unable to make any statement at present. Commander Marsden, in a supplementary question, asked whether any advance had been made at all.

Mr. Butler repeated his previous answer, and added that he realised the urgency of the matter.—Reuter.

CHAMBERLAIN AT PALACE

Discussion With King Carol

London, Nov. 17. King Carol of Rumania received Mr. Neville Chamberlain at Buckingham Palace last night. According to political quarters here, King Carol will meet also other members of the Cabinet and discuss with them various questions in which the two countries are interested.

This evening, King Carol will have the occasion to discuss these matters with Lord Halifax during a banquet at the Foreign Office.

An official statement regarding the conversation which King Carol had with Mr. Chamberlain has not been forthcoming. Political quarters here, however, regard it as certain that the economic relations between Rumania and Germany as well as the possibilities of increasing Rumanian exports to Britain were discussed.

Earlier in the afternoon, King George of Greece, who has been staying incognito in London for some time, called upon King Carol at Buckingham Palace.—Trans-ocean.

FRENCH RIGHT WING SPURNS COMMUNISTS

Paris, Nov. 17. Any idea of a national government in France in the near future was nipped in the bud by the unanimous declaration of the Congress of the Republican Federation, the largest Right Wing group in the Chamber of Deputies, yesterday.

The declaration refuses to "either support or participate in any other party maintaining contact with the Communists."

The resolution also congratulated the Party leaders for having barred the way in March this year to formation of the so-called Ministry of National Union, which was "destined only to save the Popular Front and install Communists in the Government councils."—Reuter.

Big Opium Seizure On Silveryew

Brooklyn, Nov. 17. United States Treasury officials announce the seizure on board the British freighter, Silveryew, of 11 sacks containing 85 five-ounce tins of smoking opium, valued at $255,000. The Chinese second boatwain, Tsin Ho-zon, has been arrested, while the captain and the first mate, chief engineer and five Chinese members of the crew have been taken by Customs officials to headquarters for questioning.—Reuter.

BRITAIN ORDERS BOMBERS FROM CANADA

London, Nov. 17. Sir Kingsley Wood, Minister for Air, announced in the House of Commons yesterday that an agreement had been signed under which the Government was placing an initial order for large bombers with Canadian manufacturers. The Canadian firms have undertaken to maintain, during the next ten years, manufacturing capacity available for further potential orders.—Reuter.

BRITISH ENVOY IN CHUNGKING

Chungking, Nov. 17. The British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, called on the Finance Minister, Dr. H. H. Kung, yesterday morning, and on the Foreign Minister, Dr. Wang Chung-hui, in the afternoon. The Ambassador also visited General Chang Chun, director of the Generalissimo's headquarters here. A banquet which was to have been given last night in honour of Sir Archibald was cancelled owing to the Ambassador's eye trouble.—Reuter.

KING HAAKON IN LONDON OPERATION ON QUEEN MAUDE

London, Nov. 17. King Haakon of Norway arrived in London yesterday, and a bulletin issued about the same time, signed by five doctors, including Lord Dawson of Penn, stated that Queen Maude, who has been in London for several days, was operated upon in the morning. "Though Her Majesty has come through the operation well the next few days cannot be without some anxiety," states the bulletin. King Haakon was met at Victoria by the Duke of Kent.—British Wireless.

REFUGEES CROWD KWELIN

Kwelin, Nov. 16. As a result of the large influx of refugees from Kwangtung and elsewhere, the population in Kwelin has increased to over 160,000. Owing to increasing demands, commodity prices have soared. About 60,000 more refugees from Kwangtung have arrived in Wu-chow after a hazardous journey by way of Hengyang, in south Hunan. They will be evacuated to other parts of Kwangsi and Kweliang in Kwelchow.—Central News.

EXCHANGE CONTROL FOR NORTH CHINA

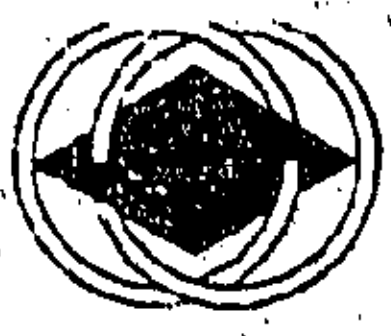

Tientsin, Nov. 17. An exchange control plan for North China, to prevent inflation that adversely affects the yen, is being considered by financial authorities of the "Provisional Government," but no definite plan has been drawn up. In line with the exchange control in Japan, Japanese firms here in North China now must apply to the "Federal Reserve Bank of China" for funds needed for new enterprises.—International.

Helena May Pantomime

NEW PRODUCTION OF "THE THREE BEARS"

At the request of the Council of the Helena May Institute, Mrs. O. C. Womack has promised to revive her little Pantomime "The Three Bears" this Christmas. Produced in 1932, "The Three Bears" was actually Hongkong's very first pantomime and was rather in the nature of an experiment.

Much to the author's surprise, Hongkong children flocked to see it and gave the show such a fervent reception that it was followed up with a second pantomime for children in 1933, "The Queen of Hearts," which played for three days to packed houses.

Kowloon followed with the first Y.M.C.A. Pantomime, a well-staged show of a more sophisticated type calculated to appeal to the "grown-ups." Since then, these performances have been an annual affair.

REHEARSALS PROCEEDING

At the Helena May, however, the Pantomimes are still put on with the definite idea of pleasing the youngsters, and this year's performance should be just what the children adore.

Already rehearsals are in full swing, and a brilliant cast is hard at work every Tuesday and Thursday.

The chief comedy leads are to be played by Mrs. Cox and Mr. V. C. Labrum. Other well-known people taking part are Miss Suzette Compton, Miss Betty Pestonji, Miss Aileen Fures, Mr. T. R. Rowell, Mr. Dick Labrum and Mrs. M. I. De Ville, while one of the juvenile leads will be played by little Vivien Ralston.

There will be two performances only, on December 20 and 21, and booking will be opened shortly at the Helena May Institute.

DEATH OF MAJOR A.M. DINIZ

Well-known Volunteer In Shanghai

One of the largest Portuguese funerals in Shanghai in a long time took place on November 12 when the remains of the late Major Antonio Maria Diniz were laid to rest at the Pashienjao Cemetery.

Major Diniz was born at Shanghai on May 4, 1865, and was educated at St. Francis Xavier's College under the French Jesuit Fathers. At an early age he entered the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation where he was employed for forty-five years, retiring on March 2, 1938, on account of failing health.

He is the widower of the late Mrs. Sarah Maria Gutierrez Diniz, who died about two years ago. He is survived by two daughters, Miss Marguerite Diniz and Mrs. Marie Reed, of Hongkong, and a son, Dr. A. P. Diniz. He leaves also two brothers here, Father F. X. Diniz and Mr. J. M. Diniz, and two sisters, one in Hongkong.

JAPANESE FATHER WANTS RETURN OF DOWRY

Daughter Died Soon After Marriage

Has a bridegroom the obligation to return the belongings of a bride who dies shortly after marriage?

The Osaka District Court must answer the question in a case brought by an Osaka family against Mr. Rokubet Fufukui, a wealthy resident of Sanganya, Osaka.

Miss Fumiko Kiyooka, the daughter of the plaintiff, was married to Mr. Fufukui in February. Five months later the bride died. Mr. Kiyooka now demands the return of her belongings.

Defendant holds that he has no obligation to return the belongings, calling the plaintiff's attention to the fact that his wife addressed him a letter at the time of marriage saying: "Please accept all these things for ever."

Council for the plaintiff asserts this letter was sent merely in accordance with custom, while the bride died before the family registration had been altered.

PUT YOUR HOUSE IN ORDER

CHECK UP, CLEAN UP, POLISH UP, FOR THE NEW SEASON

Windows, Pictures, Mirrors

If they are not so much dirty as dusty—treat them like this. Soak a rag in paraffin and let it dry. Then use it for dusting. Not only will it remove the dust more effectively than an ordinary duster but leave a good polish behind.

The Carpets

They look dull and dispirited. Do them well with the vacuum cleaner first, then make a good, soapy froth and wash them over with a brush, rinsing with a damp cloth. You can use soap flakes, or a special carpet soap or carpet shampoo.

Polished Furniture

It has suffered from sticky fingers, wet glasses, and surface scratches. Treat it to a pick-me-up with a good furniture polish, and if the glass rings and scratches prove difficult see how quickly they respond to a little warm linseed oil.

Newspaper Cuttings

You've left them strewn about in the drawer. Stick them into a cutting book—it will only cost you very little.

Telephone Cords

They are tied up into horrible knots. Get a bobbin round which to wind them; it'll only cost about 1s. or so. And the same remark refers to the slack wires of your lamps.

The door that always slams

You can reform it by hanging a long narrow pad from one handle to the other. It may slam then, but you won't hear it.

Metal candlesticks

Clean them up permanently by painting them with a colourless lacquer after thoroughly cleaning them. Or, if you like, rub a little olive oil over them after cleansing—this will keep them bright for some time. Treat metal ashtrays in the same way.

Old brasses

These can be cleaned quickly by using ammonia. Scrub them with a brush and rinse in clear water.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGES

The following forthcoming marriages are announced.

Mr. Alexander Tohey Dow, mercantile assistant residing at Watson Apartments, Watson Road, North Point, to Miss Edith May Noble of No. 21, Gillespie Crescent Edinburgh.

Mr. Chu Hok-yuen clerk of the Bank of Communications, residing at No. 190, Hennessy Road, to Miss Leung Lok-ching teacher residing at No. 154, Lockhart Road.

Mr. Leung Yau-man, salesman residing at No. 24, Yiu Wah Street, to Miss Chang Yiu-chin of No. 37, Wyndham Street.

Mr. Lawrence Woo, teacher residing at No. 8, King's Terrace, to Miss Ivy Wong of No. 382, Lockhart Road.

Silver needs cleaning

Use a good brand of polish, and a soft plate brush for setting into openwork and engraving.

Net curtains

And lace ones, too, do need washing. If you use a little starch and then put them up wet—after squeezing out all the water you can, you'll only have half the work. Pull them into shape and arrange them and, when they're dry, they'll look as though they've been ironed.

Your Bath

That rim of dirt round it will never appear if you always drop a handful of fine household oatmeal into the water whenever you take a bath. The oatmeal's good for your skin, too.

Cut Glass

You can remove most stains by half filling the decanter or glasses with crushed egg shells and salt in equal proportions, adding cold water, and shaking well.

Tangled String

Your drawer's full of it, odd lengths which you've saved from parcels; yet you never can find a suitably long piece from among the tangle when you want it. Hang an ordinary kitchen funnel on the wall, place in it a new ball of string with the loose end coming out through the point, and you'll always have some good, untangled string at hand for parcels.

Hot Kettle Handle

No need to burn your fingers every time you take that aluminium kettle off the fire. Bind the handle with raffia over string so that you can safely hold it, and treat your saucepan handles in the same way.

Cutting The Wedding Cake

The cutting of the cake appears to be a version of the ancient ceremony of breaking the cake over the bride's head, a rite which is still sometimes performed in the north of England.

When Lord Clydesdale brought his bride, Lady Elizabeth Percy, to his ancestral home at Strathaven, Lanarkshire, after their honeymoon last December, a Scots' ban-nock was broken over the bride's head for luck as the bridegroom carried her over the threshold.

After breaking the cake over the bride's head, according to ancient custom, the pieces were given to onlookers, who, receiving them, were supposed to dream that night of their future spouse.

Smollett describes how "A cake being broken over the head of Mrs. Tabitha Lismahago, the fragments were distributed among the bystanders, according to the custom of the ancient Britons, on the supposition that every person who ate of this hallowed cake should that night have a vision of the man or woman whom Heaven designed should be his or her wedded mate."

POST-MUNICH

IMPORTANT unpublished moves by the British Government during the past three weeks have developed in sharply practical form the post-Munich policy which has been sketched by the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain.

Of possibly the greatest immediate importance was a communication addressed early this month to the French Government on the subject of the Munich Pact in its relation to Spain. In this, H.M. Government made it clear to France that in the view of the former—and, it was assumed, the German and Italian Governments too—the Munich policy involved a more practically aggressive assistance than hitherto in achieving the conquest of Spain. It was therefore "suggested" by the British Government that the existing ban on arms and munitions crossing the Pyrenees must be sharply and drastically extended to include also anything which might be constructed as "giving aid and comfort" to the anti-Axis forces: this to include, therefore, wheat and other food supplies, though it is not clear whether milk was also mentioned.

THE REQUEST, apart from its other implications, served also as a sharp notification to the French to the extent of the "positive, co-operation" with the Axis powers which Germany, and Italy claim, and the Chamberlain Government agrees, to be involved by the Munich "settlement." The British Government has left no doubt whatever of its anxiety to co-operate to the full with the Axis in the conquest of Spain, China and Central Europe.

Lord Halifax's famous "indiscretion" in which he said that the Italian Government had never concealed its determination to secure victory in Spain was calculated for the same purpose. The British demand for the total blockade of Spain was apparently hastened by public and private thrusts from Rome, where it has been made perfectly clear HALIFAX in the press "INDISCRETION" and by other means that "co-operation to the limit" in support of the Axis aims was the price which must be paid if the "appeasement" atmosphere is not dissipated and, with it, the electoral chances of the Chamberlain Government and the speculative profits of prospective money-lenders in London.

PARALLEL TO THE BRITISH MOVE in Paris was developed the first stage of the North Sea blockade—which is, of course, futile unless the French frontier can be closed. In this matter, too, the same well-thought-of technique of "indiscretion" was employed with similar effect. Admiralty informants of the various British newspapers committing a series of "indiscretions" to the effect that the British Government had, as a matter of fact, been fully informed as to the position and the nature of the action likely to be undertaken. An open and official statement on the subject might have offended a section of

JAPANESE FLAG
IN HARBOURNo Re-opening Of Pearl River

The Japanese cruiser Myoko, flying the flag of Vice-Admiral Shiozawa, which arrived in Hongkong at 9 a.m. yesterday, left at 2 p.m. Salutes were fired.

Calls were exchanged between the British and the Japanese Commanders-in-Chief.

The purpose of the visit of Vice-Admiral Shiozawa, who is Commander-in-Chief of the 5th Cruiser Squadron, operating in South China, was to take advantage of an opportunity for a "frank exchange of views" between himself and His Excellency Sir Percy Noble.

According to a statement which Admiral Shiozawa is alleged to have made before his ship left harbour, it is unlikely that the Pearl River will be re-opened to shipping soon.

WATERFRONT EXCITEMENT. Some excitement was caused along the Wanchai waterfront when the Myoko steamed into harbour.

It was the first time since the hostilities began that a Japanese man-of-war has called here.

Unusual interest was manifested when it was first seen that the ship flew the Japanese flag, and before long crowds had collected at various points in Gloucester Road, speculation being rife as to the purpose of the visit.

COMPANIONS OF SHACKLETON
DUE HERE

On board the s.s. Ronalda, a new ship which has been purchased from a Manchester firm by a Hongkong company, and which left England early this month, are two men who accompanied Sir Ernest Shackleton on his Antarctic expeditions.

They are Captain Dawes and Commander Worsley, and they are coming out here in the capacity of officers of the Ronalda.

YAUMATI FIRE
KILLS ELEVEN

The death-roll in the Yaumati fire of Wednesday night has now been set at eleven, including eight very young children. In addition, ten other women and children were injured, three badly. Most of these unfortunate people were refugees from Canton.

The body of Chan Ping, girl aged seven, was recovered from the first floor of the premises yesterday.

PROPERTY SALE

Leasehold property situated at Mongkok, Kowloon, was bought for $13,100 by Mr. Wong Or-gan, of No. 104, Jervois Street, at the auction at Messrs. Lamert Brothers yesterday.

The property is registered in the Land Office as Kowloon Island Lot No. 2672, known as No. 675 Shanghai Street.

The local cotton mills ever since the outbreak of hostilities have been purchasing cotton yarn from Bombay. The cotton mills in Canton have been disrupted by the Japanese invasion, the market price of cotton yarn in Hongkong is continually falling.—"Takungpao"

The British public startled by the extension of the blockade from the Mediterranean to the coast of Norfolk, especially since it was operated from German North Sea bases. On the other hand, it was found desirable to "let slip" the fact that H.M. Government knew all about it in advance, as a general notification of "non-resistance" to the blockade policy.

British moves in Spain have run into a somewhat awkward factor in the shape of M. Paul Reynaud, a former Prime Minister, who, having aligned himself in opposition to Munich and the abandonment of Spain, is now at the Finance Ministry with a large share of control (through the Customs) of the possible flow of food to Spain.

Nor must M. Edouard Herriot, President of the Chamber, be forgotten. With these two statesmen in opposition to the British scheme, and others concerned with the defence of France, in opposition, the success or failure of the British scheme hangs in the balance.

POLITICAL CIRCLES IN EUROPE are now interested to see what attitude they will adopt in this matter, which is one of very considerable international importance.

CLAIM FOR POSSESSION
SUCCEEDSInteresting Point
RaisedSHOP USED FOR DWELLING

During the hearing of an action brought before Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, Acting Chief Justice at the Supreme Court yesterday by Mrs. Lai Shick-yu for the possession of the ground floor of No. 54, Des Voeux Road from her tenants, the World Wardrobe and Cabinet Trunk Manufacturing Company Ltd., an interesting point was raised as to whether a shop could be regarded as a domestic dwelling place because people illegally used the premises for sleeping purposes.

Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. F. E. Nash, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. H. Somerset Fitzroy, instructed by Mr. C. A. Sutherland Russ, appeared for the defendants.

It had been agreed at the outset that the primary issue was for the defendants to establish that the premises had been used as a dwelling place and therefore came within the Prevention of Evictions Ordinance.

Chau Yat-ming, managing partner of the firm, said that he rented the cockpit and his six folks had been sleeping on the floor. After he had received notice to quit he attempted to find other accommodation but failed.

FAMILY IN MONGKOK. Cross-examined, witness agreed that he had a family living in Mongkok and could go and stay there if he desired to do so. He also admitted that he had been told by his solicitor that in the opinion of Mr. G. A. V. Hall, architect, it was illegal to sleep in the cockpit and also on the floor of a shop.

Mr. Fitzroy submitted that he had established that the premises had been used as a dwelling and was therefore entitled to protection under the Prevention of Evictions Ordinance. Counsel pointed out that under a certain section in the Ordinance, a single bed-space came within the Ordinance.

Even if a person were prosecuted by the Building Authorities for illegally using the premises as a dwelling place, said counsel, it still did not prevent the place from coming under the heading of a domestic building.

NO DEFENCE. In his submission, Mr. Macnamara said that no defence had been made out and contended that there was no question of any part of the shop forming a separate letting place so that it could be appropriated for domestic use.

It had been stated that sleeping in the premises was illegal, and therefore the Court should not sanction a wrongful action for it did, and people came to know of it then every shop would be crowded with dwellers.

His Lordship gave judgment with costs for the plaintiff, remarking that he thought that there was substance in the point taken by Mr. Macnamara that the tenants, having admittedly occupied the premises in a way which was a breach of the law, could not rely on that breach to convert the place, which was essentially a shop, into a dwelling place.

His Lordship ordered that possession be given up within 28 days, and directed that mesne profits be calculated up to the date of possession.

RETURN TO
LEAGUE

with the unjust Treaty of Versailles. Instead of working for a new day in a new spirit, it was war. Second, it refused to welcome come defeated Germany into the League for nine years, and even after 16 years, when Hitler had already come into power, it refused to grant anything like military equality to Germany.

THREATEN EXISTENCE. Thirdly the nations which controlled the League refused to enforce the League's provisions for treaty revision until the nations chained and partitioned by the Treaty of Versailles had become both powerful enough and outraged enough not only to abolish these treaties by force but even to threaten the existence of the League itself.

However, a return to a new or a reformed League is still the hope of the world. We must have a League which will not defend past wrongs, but which will work positively to right real grievances, and which at the same time, will prevent military parties from making evasions, real or imagined, an excuse to wage aggressive war.

In spite of wars and preparations for war, there is still a tremendous will to peace in our world. This will to peace is seen in the strenuous efforts which nations have made to keep out of war, sometimes at the sacrifice of justice. This good-will for peace must be organized into international action before it is too late.

A reformed League of Nations, which is not an insurance society to defend the spoils of past wars, must get the allegiance of this good-will, and must organize it into an international force which will have the courage both to right wrongs and to maintain peace.

DESTROYED ALL EUROPE. Many criticize Chamberlain for sacrificing Czechoslovakia, but war would have destroyed both Czechoslovakia and all Europe. Europe, about as large as CCHINA, has 29 nations and most of them are industrialised. In a few days, bombs would have destroyed, not only thousands of lives and houses and great cities, but the industries and roads, which are the basis of the people's livelihood in Europe.

War would have brought the injustice of violence and loot and rape and death on tens of thousands for each one which suffered unjustly by the Munich Agreement.

The British compromise in the interests of peace with Italy over Abyssinia, and with Italy and Germany concerning Spain is, in my mind much more open to the charge of injustice.

A so-called non-intervention committee has left Italy and Germany almost free to help General Franco conquer two-thirds of Spain, while the side legally, and in my mind morally right, has been deprived of such help.

PROPERTIED CLASSES. In my mind, Chamberlain's willingness to see General Franco win in Spain is not a case of legality nor of peace but a desire on the part of the propertied classes, which still rule in England, to prevent socialism winning in Spain.

I think that Chamberlain thinks more of the English propertied classes than the British Empire. But Japan has even less of a case in China than Germany and

POINT OF VIEW(SPECIAL TO THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS")

It is no secret in England that the British General staff views approximately to the following: "That the military potential of Britain can be used to the full, only provided a favourable policy be adopted towards the League of Nations, and the defence of democratic principles." In this respect, the views of the French War Ministry also differ from those of the present Cabinet and the Quai d'Orsay.

And the distrust of Mr. Chamberlain's Cliveden clique policy is shown in the statement of Mr. Wickham Steed as long ago as March. "The one fundamental British interest is to say that Britain will defend those things which she ultimately will be forced to defend. If war ensues, she will be dragged into it by the tail if she refuses to go into it with her head high on the basis of principles which will command support of the British peoples and eventually of the United States."

The international situation since Munich has deteriorated to such an extent that re-armament and more re-armament is the cry most loudly heard in both Great Britain and France. Mr. Chamberlain and in France of M. Deladier. But while crying for arms and more arms, they are realizing something which Mr. Chamberlain does not understand. And that is, that the electorate, that the democracy of Great Britain is not the population of England, Scotland and Wales. "Realism" in international politics, callous hard-boiled trade in iron-mongery is not the right thing on which to rally the broad masses of the British peoples of the Colonies and the Dominions. And the support of the Dominions and British India for Mr. Chamberlain when he withdrew from Godesburg was not a gesture to "dealers in iron-mongery" and cold business. It was the spontaneous applause of the men of good-will throughout the Empire and the United States of America, as well as the rest of the world.

Arms of themselves are worthless. They are so many pieces of metal unless the great vocal, emotional masses of the democracies of the British Empire and the rest of the world take those pieces of metal in their hands for a cause. And as these are the people upon whom the outcome of wars and the lives of nations depend, the cause must be one of justice and righteousness. Not peace at any price. But peace with honour. And that seems to me to be the point of view of Mr. Anthony Eden.

BY ARTHUR STAPLETON

The "realists" in England shun "ideals" or "principles." Hard-boiled realistic politics where smaller countries are used as small change for paying off blackmailers and where mandates and colonies, also of the smaller countries, will be used as sop for the appetites of the "have-not" countries is what were becoming keystones of the ethics of nations. But, after the humiliation of Munich and the same settlement aroused in many quarters, it was clear both in England and in France that a "principle" of conduct must be set. "We must stand for something which can rally to the banner of Italy have in Spain. Japan says she does not want Chinese territory. She wants more than territory. She wants to control China, body and soul.

It seems clear that if Britain and France should fight, they should fight to defend freedom and justice in Asia and their own right in China rather than to perpetuate an injustice in Europe.

A well-prepared world conference should be called as soon as possible. It should make a sincere effort to deal with the grievances of over-populated nations. It should deal far-sightedly and justly with the problems of immigration, raw materials, tariffs, markets and colonies.

COLLECTIVE SECURITY. If the democratic empires demand an open door for their trade, over-populated, land-hungry nations also have the right to demand an open door to raw materials and for immigration. On the other hand, totalitarian states should at once stop their military aggressions and join a reformed League of Nations and a new system of collective security.

A permanent international organisation, with a permanent standing committee, not just a League Council meeting three or four times a year and shirking responsibility, must be set up continually to discuss and rectify injustices and to prevent further wars of aggression.

To achieve the new world of justice and of peace means hard work and honest thinking and sincere, unselfish service, not only in our individual lives, but in all our social, political and international relationships. This is the greatest challenge that comes to youth and to Christianity to-day. The world's future and our own future depends on how we meet that challenge.

INTERNATIONAL
COMPLICATIONS ARE FEAREDJapanese And The Yangtze

Tokyo, Nov. 17.

Two more reasons have been adduced by the Japanese authorities for Japan's refusal to allow British, French or American merchant vessels to navigate the Yangtze in accordance with the joint request of the three countries, according to a spokesman of the Japanese Admiralty to-day.

They are, firstly, the anxiety of the Japanese naval authorities over possible international complications; and, secondly, the possibility that arms and ammunition will be secretly supplied by foreign merchant vessels to Chinese troops and bandits without the knowledge of the Government under whose flag the ships sail.

With regard to "international complications" the spokesman cited the recent case of a mine exploding near a neutral warship at Kiangling and alleged that the Chinese represented it as a deliberate action of the Japanese authorities.

The spokesman said that repetition of such a mishap would be unbearable for the Japanese Navy.

HOLOCAUST WROUGHT IN LIUCHOW BOMBING

Most Horrible City Has Ever Experienced

Wuchow, November 17. Liuchow, important city in Central Kwangsi, was turned into a raging inferno yesterday by incendiary bombs rained indiscriminately by 21 Japanese planes in relays.

For hours columns of smoke and fire shrouded the city. Rows of shops and civilian houses in the crowded parts were quickly destroyed in the conflagration. The streets were littered with charred and mutilated bodies and smouldering ruins.

Negotiations Carried On Backstage

COLONIAL CLAIM BY GERMANY

(Special to the "Hongkong Daily Press")

London, Nov. 17. In the backstage negotiations which are being carried on regarding Germany's claim to colonies, the Belgian Government has perceived a plot against its own empire. Confidential parleys have, therefore, been opened between Brussels and Berlin for a settlement of Belgian-German relations before Chamberlain, Hitler, Daladier and Mussolini meet again.

The Belgians believe the Great Powers intend to ask for a section of the Congo to be passed to Germany, plus a part of Portuguese Angola. Information which reached Brussels to that effect recently seemed so conclusive that King Leopold requested his Government to open negotiations with the Nazi Foreign Ministry immediately.

It has been proposed in Berlin that Germany shall be given the little border region of Eupen and Malmedy, which Belgium received from Germany under the Peace Treaty. In return, the Belgian Government requires a guarantee that Germany will not demand a part of the Belgian Congo when Nazi colonial claims are being staked.

FRANCE'S ATTITUDE

Paris, Nov. 17. The text of the communiqué issued here yesterday defining the attitude of the French Government towards the colonial problem reads as follows:

The French Government has not waited till now to announce its attitude to the colonial problem regarding which campaign has been in progress for some time past. Several weeks ago the French Government made it known that France would resist every attempt to diminish her colonial Imperium as settled at the end of the World War.

Never has any session been considered nor will any be considered at any future time. No negotiations on this matter have ever been envisaged.

The French Government renews the denial already issued against the false information according to which the colonial question would be discussed at the forthcoming British Ministerial deliberations.

As far back as last October 20, four mining industries resumed business in Perak owing to the return of stable prices of tin. The local authorities consider it as favourable to the economic conditions. This new sign of life in the local market is believed to be due to two factors, namely, that according to the Government Ordinance any mine that has been idle for six months will be taken over by the Government, and the rise in the price of tin.

R.B. MOLLER WILL RIDE SILKYLIGHT TO-MORROW

Fine Race Promised In The Hongkong St. Leger

(BY "LAST QUARTER")

A REVIEW OF THE PROGRAMME and weights for the various events at the Eleventh Extra Race Meeting of the Hongkong Jockey Club, which takes place to-morrow afternoon, indicates prospects of extremely keen and interesting sport. The main event, the Hongkong St. Leger, has attracted only five entries, the notable absentee being the Eu Tong Sen crack Desert Chief.

Punters will, however, witness another duel between Confusion Bay and Silky Light, over the 1-3/4 mile course. The Li Po Chun candidate, Expression Time, another promising griffin of this season, has also given this classic event a miss. The remaining seven events are handicap ones, and judging by the entries the selection of winners will be no easy task.

Mr. Eric Moller, owner of Silky Light and one of Shanghai's most successful stables, will be in Hongkong for the meeting, to witness the main event of the day. It is also stated that his son, Mr. R. B. Moller, who rode Silky Light with such outstanding success at the Annual Meeting, will also be present and have the mount on the brown stallion in the Hongkong St. Leger.

SHUM CHUN HANDICAP (FIRST SECTION)

The afternoon's sport opens with a mile race for "C" Class China Ponies. Apilas and Lucky are two entrants that have not raced for quite a while and I doubt if either of them will strip fit enough. Apilas, I have not seen of late, as he is one of those early ones that does his training work long before the break of dawn, but Lucky appears to be short of a gallop or two judging by the try-out on Wednesday morning.

The form bet here is Tampa Bay and this bay griffin of the year should be prominent throughout.

Tyne is the main danger, while Seaside View should also do well. The punters that have been following Rose Queen should continue to do so, as once this mare makes up her mind to run, she should have no difficulty in accounting for the field.

National Pride is rather heavily weighted, but though Laughing Girl has only 140 lbs. to look after, this grey, I am afraid, will not stay the distance, especially if Harvest View is started, as the two are sure to have quite a battle for the lead over the first half mile.

NEW BRIDGE HANDICAP

This six furlongs sprint for "B" Class Australians should be a very open affair as quite a number of them should have equal chances of winning. I am mentioning Lucky Lad first as I honestly believe he has the best credentials here, although in reality there is very little between this chestnut and the others. Vixen Tor seems to have come on a little in form recently and will find the distance very suitable.

Criffel has a lot of weight to carry but this bay is a greatly improved pony and will be able to make the others go all out. Katinka and Ranger are not to be despised though I fear they can do no better than secure a place. Dick Turpin, Derby Day and Aztec are all well known sprinters and if the favorites are beaten, I am certain one of these three will be the cause of it.

I shall pay particular attention to the final gallops of these above mentioned ponies and give my final choice in to-morrow's issue.

HONGKONG ST. LEGER

There remains little doubt in my mind as to which is the better racer, when Confusion Bay and Silky Light go to the post in this classic of the day. I nominate Silky Light as the winner, without hesitation, in view of his running at the last meeting. This brown racer, conceding 16 lbs. to Confusion Bay was full of fight, when, unfortunately, in the straight, the jockey was forced to pull up. At equal weights and over a mile and three quarters I firmly believe the grey candidate will have the better of the Dunbar nomination. I cannot visualize Just in Time (Needa) or Elizabeth (Hearne), staying the distance creditably and therefore I anticipate quite a close finish between them. The main opposition will come from Wild Cat, as this dun sulk has been showing great form in training during the past month and is now at about his best. Bistre and Amberley are among the heavy weights but are not entirely out of it, though I concede Amberley the better chance of the two. Laughing Buddha should also come in a fair support in view of his second behind Rose Evelyn a month ago.

CASTLE PEAK HANDICAP (FIRST SECTION)

The Daily Double should be an attractive feature of the meeting as quite a well-balanced field will go to the post in the first leg. This race is a little under five furlongs and on paper Dekko and Piet Hen are the best qualified over the distance. The former is fast off the barrier but I recommend punters to take special note of the draw for positions at the start. Coronation Day will also have to be reckoned with as this mare is a puller and may possibly repeat her recent success. Estover is another dangerous contender.

Royal Highness, unaccountably have a change of riders, but good as this chestnut is I have not forgotten her occasional queer antics at the starting gate. Valorous if ridden by Mr. Needa has an outside chance, but from what I have seen of training gallops Desert Star is somewhat backward in form. Fel Ying will be taken out by novice jockey, K. I. Ip, and with 5 lbs. off, this chestnut is the one to follow if you are looking for an outsider and a fair sized dividend.

NEWCASTLE HANDICAP

Violent Queen has again been whipped, despite her last failure, as the potential winner in this race for "C" Class Australians, but I am afraid this black mare will have all her work cut out to withstand the challenge of some of the other runners.

Murray River and Roofly are certain to be near, while Bag Tor must not be neglected as this old favourite seems to be approaching past form. A Great Time has a big lead, but this bay is in fine fettle and probably strip the fittest pony in the paddock, so do not fall to have a small bet on this starter.

Discovery Bay does not look likely to last out the distance, but both Twilight Star and Stratnacreek are looking well, especially the latter, who is a vastly improved pony.

TAIPO HANDICAP

This race, confined to Novice Jockeys, is the second leg of the Daily Double, and consequently just as difficult to spot the winner as in the first leg. National Guard, in view of his recent win over a similar field should stand on excellent chance. Cape Comorin was prominent at the last meeting and should be in it at the finish. Sea Dragon did a nice gallop on Wednesday morning and seems to have recovered some lost form. Wenning, Five Rulers and National Dignity are also expected to run well. The latter, as I recall it, was once considered a better racer than National Guard. Acme has a win at Macao to his credit, but I doubt whether a novice will be able to get the most out of this dun, as he is a recognized sing.

CASTLE PEAK HANDICAP (SECOND SECTION)

This final event on the programme, over approximately five furlongs is another difficult race to forecast, as there are several sprinters of note. Double Chance and Flylight should be close enough, particularly if well favoured at the rise of the barrier. Gold Sovereign won a hard race at Macao last week and is quite capable of repeating the performance. Racing Boy and Tempest may find the distance a little short. Araxy (165 lbs.) is very fast and has an outside chance. Meteor went under to Double Chance in a try-out on Wednesday morning, but this grey

INDIGNATION MOUNTING IN U.S.

Economic Reprisals Against Nazis

New York, Nov. 17. The wave of American indignation against Germany for the treatment of Jews is still mounting. Proposals are being made from people in all walks of life for settling Jews in the United States and Africa and demands are made for economic and diplomatic reprisals against the Nazis.

A meeting of over a hundred Methodist and Episcopal bishops and laymen passed a resolution unanimously condemning the "unspeakable persecution" in Germany.

Three thousand students and members of the faculty of Columbia University, New York, have signed a letter to President Roosevelt urging him to follow the late President Theodore Roosevelt's precedent in protesting against pogroms in Russia before the war, and to sever trade relations with Germany.—Reuter.

It is quite a game battler and may run much better in the actual race.

My final selections will appear in to-morrow morning's issue of this paper.

FIVE GREAT EARTHQUAKES

Five of the year's greatest earthquakes, one of the greatest series for many years, were recorded on Royal Observatory seismographs during the past two weeks.

The epicentres of these earthquakes have been in the Pacific Ocean but the shocks might extend to Japan, Formosa and the Philippine Islands.

JAPANESE DESTROY VILLAGE

NEAR BRITISH BORDER

A small Chinese village off Ngau Tau, in Chinese waters, was raided and destroyed by a number of Japanese bluejackets last Saturday, according to a report made to the police by Ng Ying, junk owner, who escaped from the village and arrived in the Colony of Wednesday.

The incident occurred very close to the British border, and according to Ng, while his junk was anchored off Ngau Tau a number of Japanese warships approached. He removed his ammunition to a shop in the village for safety. Early in the morning of November 12 he saw the Japanese destroying the village.

England Overwhelms Ireland

INTERNATIONAL SOCCER WIN

London, Nov. 16.
William Hall, of Tottenham, playing at inside right for England, in a brilliant display of opportunism and marksmanship, scored five goals and helped England to overwhelm Ireland in the international soccer match at Manchester to-day by seven goals to nil.

Hall's feat of scoring five times was an England international record, and his three goals in three minutes becomes the first of international fast scoring records.

The Irish defenders were unable to check the speedy English forwards, who indulged in long swinging passes and brilliant combination.

The Irish forwards were given little of the ball by the English defenders, who were deadly in their tackling.

Other English goal-scorers were Lawton, the centre-forward, Matthews, outside right.

England led 4-0 at half-time.

Ireland's defeat ensures that they will finish at the bottom of the international table.

CHANGE TO SIDES

One change was made in each side. Morris, the Wolverhampton right back coming in to take the place of Sproston, who was injured, and Twoomey, of Leeds, playing in goal for Ireland instead of Breen, of Manchester United.

Teams:—
England.—Woodley, Morris, Hapgood, Willingham, Jullis, Mercer, Matthews, Hall, Lawton, Stephenson and Smith.
Ireland.—Twoomey, Hayes, Cook, Broly, McMillen, L. D. Brown, Cochrane, Stephenson, Baird, Docherty and Brown (Birmingham).—

CHARTERED BANK LOSE AT RUGGER

Chartered Bank opened scoring against Westminster Bank at Northfields with a try by Sandison, which Thom converted, writes a Home correspondent. Westminster replied strongly, and their superiority in the tight scrummages was soon shown when Robinson dodged his way over and touched down. Grellier converting. Soon after this Chartered again took the lead through Angus, and Thom made sure of the kick, but in reply Desmond scored for Westminster just before half-time, and Grellier kicked a fine goal.

Westminster attacked strongly in the second half, and Chartered were held on the defensive while Meers dropped a clever goal and Grellier kicked well in the loose and line-out, and Smith raced across and touched down for Chartered. Thom kicking his third goal. Westminster asserted themselves strongly in the last fifteen minutes, and Mills, Meers, and Robinson scored in quick succession, but all the kicks failed.

SENIOR LEAGUE PROSPECTS

BIG MATCH TO-MORROW AT CAUSEWAY BAY

Middlesex Meet Navy: Valley "Derby" Match

(By C.I.R.E.)

THERE ARE TWO INTERESTING matches down for decision in the Senior Football League to-morrow afternoon. Navy meeting Middlesex on the Causeway Bay ground and Club being opposed to Kowloon in the "derby" fixture on the Valley ground. The former match should produce some very good football as both teams are fairly well balanced with the odds slightly in favour of the soldiers.

The Club v. Kowloon match always holds interest and to-morrow should be no exception with a win indicated for the mainlanders. Kowloon have not been active for two weeks while the Club sustained a severe trouncing at Caroline Hill last Saturday at the hands of South China "A".

South China "B" who lost their last two matches in succession will meet the Royal Scots at Caroline Hill at 4.15 p.m., and unless the Chinese have shown definite improvement in form the Scotsmen should gather full points.

Kwong Wah will be put to a thorough test on Sunday afternoon when they meet South China "A" on the Kowloon ground at 4.15 o'clock. A win for the Caroline Hill team should be the order of the day but Kwong Wah may be relied on to give a good account of themselves.

The following records of the Navy and Middlesex will be of interest:—

Navy.—v. Kowloon 4-1; v. Police 2-2; v. Kwong Wah 1-1; v. S. China 4-0; v. Club 2-3; v. Royal Scots 2-2.

The Kowloonatic

A sort of woolly ape who spends most of his time swimming across the harbour to Hong Kong balancing an empty tankard on his head, because, not being very intelligent, he doesn't know that "HB BEER" can be delivered to him in his home in any quantities.

HONGKONG BANK BEATEN

Hongkong and Shanghai Bank were recently beaten by Ealing in a fast and open game by a dropped goal and a try to a try, writes a London correspondent. The Banks forwards were livelier in the loose, and, upstarts, and, quick on the ball against heavy Ealing pack. Ealing outsiders had more openings but were checked by sound tackling. Ealing scored first with try by J. Inglis.

In the second half the Bank pressed, and following a forward rush started in their own "25" C. P. Stubbs gained the touch-down.

Ealing returned to the attack and following a scrum J. Inglis dropped a goal.

THE HUNT—FANLING SEASON OPENS

(BY JACK SPRAGGON)

As usual we opened our season at Tien Ping Shan, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stanton. There was a goodly gathering, amongst whom I noticed Brigadier, Mrs. and Miss Reeve, General Sutton, Comdr. and Mrs. Menzies, Major and Mrs. Rawstone, Mrs. J. J. Paterson and Nancy, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Macgregor, Mr. and Mrs. Benson, Major and Mrs. Oliver, Mr. Maenamara, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Potts and their son Peter, Miss Betty-Pair, Miss Lois Fearon and Mr. Peter Potts, when Captain Harland arrived with the hounds, assisted by Messrs. Butcher, Grieve, Hook and Fergus.

Major Berlie Oliver deputised for Mr. Alec Potts as field-master, as the latter was elected to lay the line which he proceeded to do assisted by his son Peter.

The first line was picked up shortly after crossing the stone bridge at the back of Stanton's paddock, ran along the foothills to the big bridge near Sheungshui, crossed the Border road and ran through the foothills to the brickworks. A short second run took us over good grass country on either side of the Border Road checking at the junction of the Canton Road.

A third run over magnificent undulating grassland took us through the greater part of Telegraph Gap Valley at the top of which we finally "killed." Mrs. Rawstone had the misfortune to break her collar bone, and Bill Stanton was thrown early in the first line and was unlucky to break his bridle and lose his pony.

SHORT LINES

When we met on Wednesday at Dill's Corner, there were a mere baker's dozen. Mr. Dobson gave us a couple of short lines which were very enjoyable, as it was a hot afternoon, and the field not too big for the narrow country he took us over. The first line ran from Dill's Corner parallel to Castle Peak Road for half a mile and then wended through the foothills down to the Shun Chun River, where we checked and picked up the next line on the other side of the Valley and ran straight back to Lo Wu.

We met at Peter Potts' Bungalow next Sunday, and as he will be "at home" and the line laid by Maenamara, a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon should be had by all.

I have been asked to remind members to ring up Messrs. Thomson and Co. by 5 p.m. on Thursdays if they wish to have the table d'hôte time on Sundays, otherwise only a la carte dishes can be obtained according to the circular already sent to all members.

The Hunter's Arms is being conducted this season by Mrs. Alec Potts and a very successful season is predicted, judging from the general improved appearance. All members are urged to co-operate and help her in this very difficult and thankless task.
